LEGAL PROVISIONS FOR FOREIGN ARCHITECTS

Although anyone is free to set up practice as an architect, town planner/urban designer, landscape architect or interior architect in the Netherlands, the titles of architect, town planner/urban designer, landscape architect and interior designer have been professionally protected since 1988. This means that anyone wishing to use one of these titles in the Netherlands must be registered with the Stichting Bureau Architectenregister (Architects' registration board).

All team members participating for one of the Dutch sites using one of the mentioned titles, have the Dutch nationality or is resident in The Netherlands and finished their professional education before January 2015, have to be registered in the Architects Register (see www.architectenregister.nl).
